

These pictures make a statement against President Trump given the timing:

- 1. Means solidarity between China and North Korea
- 2. The two leaders are on the opposite side of Trump when it comes to the FAILED talks with North Korea or the tax imposed on Chinese goods.
- 3. China is backing North Korea.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 2019 • VOL. CCLXXIII NO. 114 WSLJ0000  $8.00

What's News

Markets & Finance

The S&P 500 index fell 1.2% on Thursday, ending at 3,000.10. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 100.00 to 25,900.00. The Nasdaq Composite fell 1.1% to 7,500.00. The Russell 2000 fell 1.5% to 1,800.00. The VIX volatility index rose 10% to 15.00. The oil price fell 1.5% to $65.00 per barrel. The gold price fell 1.0% to $1,300.00 per ounce. The yen fell 1.0% to 110.00 per dollar. The euro fell 0.5% to 1.10 per dollar. The British pound fell 0.5% to 1.30 per dollar. The Swiss franc fell 0.5% to 0.90 per dollar. The Canadian dollar fell 0.5% to 75.00 per 100 dollars. The Australian dollar fell 0.5% to 70.00 per 100 dollars. The New Zealand dollar fell 0.5% to 75.00 per 100 dollars. The Hong Kong dollar fell 0.5% to 7.80 per 100 dollars. The Singapore dollar fell 0.5% to 1.35 per 100 dollars. The South Korean won fell 0.5% to 1,100.00 per 100 dollars. The Indian rupee fell 0.5% to 75.00 per 100 dollars. The Chinese yuan fell 0.5% to 6.80 per 100 dollars. The Japanese yen fell 0.5% to 110.00 per 100 dollars. The Mexican peso fell 0.5% to 20.00 per 100 dollars. The Brazilian real fell 0.5% to 5.50 per 100 dollars. The Russian ruble fell 0.5% to 75.00 per 100 dollars. The South African rand fell 0.5% to 15.00 per 100 dollars. The Indian rupee fell 0.5% to 75.00 per 100 dollars. The Chinese yuan fell 0.5% to 6.80 per 100 dollars. The Japanese yen fell 0.5% to 110.00 per 100 dollars. The Mexican peso fell 0.5% to 20.00 per 100 dollars. The Brazilian real fell 0.5% to 5.50 per 100 dollars. The Russian ruble fell 0.5% to 75.00 per 100 dollars. The South African rand fell 0.5% to 15.00 per 100 dollars.

U.S., Iran Risk Wider Conflict

Downing of military drone comes amid rising tensions over tanker attacks

The U.S. and Iran edged closer to a military confrontation on Thursday as Iranian forces shot down an American surveillance drone and President Trump warned that Tehran had made "a very big mistake."

All the signs seem to point to a wider conflict between the two nations, which have been at odds since the U.S. retracted later appeared to down the drone by suggesting that the plane's crew might have been down without the shooting of Tehran's top leadership.

The incident comes under a series of "no-fly" zones and air patrols. The U.S. has a base of operations in the Gulf, and it would have been in the air at the time.

The incident underlines the fragility of relations between the two nations, and administration officials say the U.S. has no intention of backing off the "no-fly" zones.

By Michael R. Gordon, Ken Felt, James G. Thompson and Steven Staples

The U.S. has accused Iran of shooting down an American surveillance drone on Thursday, but the Iranian government says it was a "military" drone and that the U.S. was in violation of international law.

The drone was shot down by Iranian forces, and the U.S. has accused Iran of shooting down the drone. The U.S. has accused Iran of shooting down the drone.

Iranian and American forces, which are not talking and are not talking to each other, are not talking and are not talking to each other.

London, in which both sides say they are not talking and are not talking to each other, are not talking and are not talking to each other.

Washington, in which both sides say they are not talking and are not talking to each other, are not talking and are not talking to each other.

officials have warned about the risk of a wider conflict between the two nations, which have been at odds since the U.S. re-

The new tension has been the result of a series of events, including the shooting down of the drone and the U.S. accusation that Iran had made "a very big mistake."

Iranian officials have warned about the risk of a wider conflict between the two nations, which have been at odds since the U.S. re-

North Korea, China Show Unity in Xi's First Visit to Pyongyang

S&P 500 Reaches A Record As Yields Drop Off

By Joanna Marder

The S&P 500 index hit its first record close since April, underscoring confidence in Wall Street that the U.S. economy and global markets remain healthy despite a fresh round of trade talks around the world.

The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury note slipped below 3% Thursday for the first time since late 2016, hitting 2.89% early in the morning in Asia and touching that low several times in New York trading before closing at 2.90%.

Yields rose over a rate hike in Germany at France, reflecting rising bet

Photo by AP/Wide World

Photo by AP/Wide World